ANNOTATSIYA:

Rebecca Yarros' "Fourth wing" is considered one of the most interesting and exciting fantasy novels of its time. The author's unique style and unique storytelling make him stand out in the fantasy and romance genres. The world created in the book is not only magical and mysterious, but also full of human emotions, which makes the reader full of deep thought. The events and characters Yarros creates with his pen allow the reader to step on the border between reality and myth, making reading even more interesting.

"The concept of the" Fourth wing " embodied in the title of the work may seem mysterious and incomprehensible to many at first glance. However, in a deeper analysis of the book, this wing is understood as a symbol of life and spiritual growth. This wing represents the changes and increases that are taking place in the inner universe of the heroes. Through the lives of the Yarros characters, their search for identity and their unique adventures, it also allows the reader to feel these changes. In the book, every detail, every event is enriched with details from life itself, which ensures that the work is truly vivid and interesting. The element of fiction was so carefully and delicately worked in the work that it not only increases interest in the process of reading, but also directs the reader deeper in the world of given events. The world created through magic, secret powers, and strange creatures is gradually revealed with its own rules and evokes in the reader a sense of adapting to new living conditions. Yarros ' world-building is so thorough and complete that everything has its place in it. In his book, he acts without any randomness or excessive detail, ensuring the intelligibility of the chain of events.

Viewed romantically," the Fourth wing " carries a theme of love that is changing in itself, but with constant power. Yarros is very thoughtful about the complex manifestations of love, how it affects the human soul and how it renews human life. Each character's own love and attitude towards it makes the book not only a romantic story, but also an in-depth analysis of human emotions. Love is presented here not only as a romantic connection, but also as a source of strength on the path to loyalty, struggle, and self-realization. When creating the author's characters, special attention is paid to psychological details. The feelings, interactions, internal struggles and decision-making processes of each image are vividly and reliably described. This allows the reader to better understand the characters, to understand their motivations and mistakes. Within the complex plot of the book, each hero seeks his own path, goes through internal contradictions and external difficulties, through which the reader sympathizes and sympathizes with them. The development of events in the work is full of anticipation and excitement. Each turn introduces the reader to new secrets and surprises. Instead of pushing events, Yarros carefully thought out them and linked each small detail to the overall content of the story. This constantly keeps the interest of the reader at a high level. Every time the reader opens a new page, new discoveries await, and this makes it difficult to distinguish it from the book. Even in terms of creating an atmosphere, the "Fourth wing" is characterized by a unique pattern. The transitions between places and times in the book are natural and logically understandable. Images of Nature, details and environment set the tone of the story, evoke vital and emotional states in the reader's mind. Each page is rich in enviable details, which also make the events more lively and interesting. This aspect gives the work the same vitality as in a film or theater work.

In "the Fourth wing", the complexity of creatures, powers, and the magical world gives the reader opportunities to learn and discover. Elements of fiction come from the author's own thinking and worldview, bringing new colors, new content and new emotions to the work. Each magical event or character has its own deep meaning, which is wonderfully combined with the principles of modernity and humanity in the work. The characters are completely human and complex. Each of them has their own history, internal conflicts, and dreams. Yarros creates them not only as simplified guards and heroes, but in complex, multifaceted images, as in real life. This increases their viability and ensures that the student looks at them sympathetically. Their loneliness, mistakes, and triumphs give the piece a much more vitality. The author also raises important topics throughout the book, such as society, human nature, personal development, and self-awareness. As with any work of fantasy, "Fourth Wing" uses the backdrop of events to depict modern society and its complexities. Through these themes, Yarros not only encourages the reader to read entertainment, but also expands his vision of life, directing humanity and affection. On each page, the reader finds his inner experiences, realizes new facets of his feelings. The book is a source of strength not only for temporary pleasure, but also for combating mental repression and trials. Yarros' inspiring and thought-provoking style makes the book a unique reading experience.

Each chapter of "Fourth wing" opens up new mysteries and themes, making it more attractive to complete the book. In his work, Yarros leaves the reader on a journey filled with adventure, excitement, love and inner transformations. During this journey, each student discovers new facets to himself, becoming more aware of his identity. While character excellence is crucial to any work of fiction, Yarros' characters are completely alive, colorful, and full of action. Their relationship, inner experiences and resistance to external difficulties make the work not only interesting, but also impressive. Each character has his own distinct voice, beautifully harmonizing with the overall tone in the book. The author combines elements of romance and fiction to create his own unique world. In this world, the text of events creates in the reader's mind not only thoughts, but also deep feelings. The love stories depicted in the book are realistic and sincere, and the reader perceives them as truly life-affirming experiences. This makes the work more impressive. Yarros used a distinct language and style in his work. Each image in the book is clear and vivid, each dialogue is natural and meaningful. The author's play with words, metaphors and images allow the reader to immerse himself in the world of events and feel with him. This style gives the work a special charm and makes the reader inseparable from the book.
